

We want you to know we oppose relaxing any rules on broadcast media being owned by other media in the same general area.

There is already a great lack of diversity almost everywhere you go, with all of the large papers being owned by a handful of corporations. To have them own radio/TV stations as well would severely limit the flow of information and opinions. Is this what the FCC wants? We certainly do not. Please let the rules stand as they are.

Sincerely,
Lila and Irv Berman
